

Mandatory surveillance of surgical site infection (SSI) in orthopaedic surgery

Data collected over three years, April 2004 - March 2005, April 2005 - March 2006 & April 2006 - March 2007

Number of procedures and surgical site infections by category of procedure and NHS Trust

The rates of SSI in this report should be interpreted with caution. They represent estimates made from the sample of procedures included in the surveillance. In many cases they are based on small numbers of procedures and are therefore imprecise. Where appropriate, confidence limits are shown in order to give a guide as to how precise a particular estimate is.

The possibility that an SSI will be detected depends on the length of time that the patient spends in hospital post-operatively. Some variation in rates may therefore be explained by differences in length of post-operative follow-up. In addition, the rates included in these tables have not been adjusted for underlying risk factors related to the patient or their operation that could affect the risk of developing an SSI, for example age, underlying illness, complexity of the operation. Data on the effect of some of these factors is contained in the separate report of the first three years of the mandatory SSI surveillance in orthopaedics available from the Health Protection Agency website:

http://www.hpa.org.uk/infections/topics_az/surgical_site_infection/default.htm

Note: Only NHS Trusts that undertake relevant orthopaedic procedures and who are registered with the Surgical Site Infection Surveillance Service (SSISS) appear in this table.

*The confidence limits represent the range of rates between which the true rate of infection could feasibly lie and will be wider for those Trusts with fewer operations. Very low, or very high rates that are based on a small number of procedures should therefore not be taken at face value but should be interpreted in conjunction with the confidence limits. The conventional method of calculating confidence limits could be misleading for rates based on less than 50 operations, as they overestimate the true upper 95% limit, and for this reason they have not been included for Trusts with less than 50 operations in a particular orthopaedic category.
